Keynote

A well-functioning insurance industry is vital for any healthy and vibrant economy. What are the priorities for Ireland as an international center for insurance and where do we go from here? Minister Fleming will speak about the Government's ambitious plan to change the Irish insurance environment through the Action Plan for Insurance Reform, the successes achieved to date, and the future of the Irish insurance market. This will include Ireland's strength as a global insurtech/fintech hub, the size and scope of its captive insurance market, and his support for diversity initiatives such as the Women in Finance charter, which he launched in April 2022.
